Year 7	The test will be on all the topics you have done so far in Year 7, up to and including the section on glaciers (so not oceans or coasts). To clarify - urban, tectonics, rural and water (water cycle, rivers and glaciers)	Task 1 will be a short essay answering 'Why does the UK look like it does?'. Task 2 is multiple choice questions from all your topics this year.	Your green book! This should be your first choice for revision along with the powerpoints on Teams (files). Remember the notes sections under the powerpoints often have teacher notes on, so worth looking at! We don't recommend any revision guide as these are often out of date and don't match how we have approached teaching. You can however look at BBC bitesize for specific things like the Burgess model but not whole topics like urban.
Year 8	The test will be on all the topics you have done so far in Year 8, up to and including disease. There is a checklist of everything you need to know on Teams.	You will be given a question that you need to make a decision on. The question will be similar in style (but not the same as) some of the key questions we have looked at this year, such as 'will China be the future global superpower?' You be given some information that you must use as well as your own knowledge to write an answer to the question. In the exam there will be detailed instructions on what you must include in your answer but essentially you must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Use data/examples from the information given and your own knowledge • Explain your points fully • Show an awareness of both sides (for and against) • Come to a clear conclusion/decision to answer the question. 	Your green book! This should be your first choice for revision along with the powerpoints on Teams (files). Remember the notes sections under the powerpoints often have teacher notes on, so worth looking at! We don't recommend any revision guide as these are often out of date and don't match how we have approached teaching. You can however look at BBC bitesize for specific things like the how different types of weather is measured and recorded.
Year 9	Coasts and Urban	There will be a mix of exam questions, from multiple choice up to 9 markers. These will follow the typical structure of an AQA paper.	Your green book! This should be your first choice for revision along with the powerpoints on Teams (files). Remember the notes section under the powerpoints often have teacher notes on, so worth looking at! My Luteijn has also created a revision tab for you on Teams which has links to past papers, check lists and so on. You have the textbook on kerboodle.
