

Reading School - Admission to Year 12 in September 2024
Frequently Asked Questions regarding Offer of Places

Q	I have been offered a place at Reading School but have not had any communication from the school itself.
A	Communication via Applicaa was sent to students w/b 18th March. If you have not received your email by 18th March please contact the school via sixthformadmissions@reading-school.co.uk
Q	I qualify for entry with 56 predicted GCSE points or above, but I have not received an offer. Why?
A	Reading School has received an unprecedented number of applications this year and regrettably we have been unable to offer a place to all qualifying applicants. Places have been offered based on predicted GCSE scores and availability in the combination of subjects requested.
Q	How many Sixth Form applications were received?
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 150 Internal Applications • 469 External Applications • 571 Day Applications • 48 Boarding Applications
Q	How many places are available in the Sixth Form?
	The school offers around 180 places for entry into the Sixth Form each year which includes 12 weekly boarding places. In a typical year about 145 internal students will qualify to enter the Sixth Form, leaving a minimum of 35 further places for external students. The school will offer additional places if there is availability in subjects.
Q	What was the cut off points score for external applicants?
A	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 70 points - for applicants wanting to study Maths, Further Maths, Biology, Chemistry and/or Physics • Lower points offers were made to some students who had selected less subscribed subjects.
Q	Waiting List
	With regret we have had to place a number of qualifying students on our waiting list because we do not have availability on our courses. We will contact you if we are able to offer you a place prior to the 30 th June 2024. If we do not contact you by this date, please do contact us on GCSE results day if you are still interested in a place at Reading School. Occasionally students do withdraw creating vacancies.
Q	I wanted to study 4 A-levels but I have only been offered 3 A-levels
	The minimum points score to study 4 A-levels is 64 GCSE points. You have been offered 3 subjects because your points score is below 64.
Q	Four versus Three A-levels
A	Currently more than 60% of applicants for the Sixth Form at Reading School have applied for four or more A-levels, 50% of Sixth Formers in the past two years have ended up taking just three A-levels in Year 13 rather than the four they started with. The overwhelming priority for any student in deciding how many A-levels they start with should be a consideration of what gives them the best possible chance of three top grades, as the overwhelming majority of University offers are made on the basis of three grades. We have a high percentage of students going to elite universities and taking three A-levels does not prevent them from doing so. The only discernible advantage of taking more than three has been noticed for “early entry” university applicants applying for Oxbridge or Medical courses. If you have opted to take four A-levels, we would encourage you to consider your workload and whether your fourth option might prejudice your achievement in the other three. We find that every year half of the cohort end up withdrawing from one subject in an untimely manner, when it would have been to their advantage to start with three

Q	I have not been offered my preferred choice of the A-level subjects
	This will be because we are full in the subjects that you want to study and places have been offered to students predicted the highest GCSE grades. Alternatively, it may be because the subjects you have requested are not compatible with the finalised option blocks. In this situation we aim to offer your reserve subject.
Q	Can I change my subjects?
